ATTACK IN ITALY STEPPED UP BY YANKS

Meandering
Along the Main Stem
By WASH. FAYETTE

Some people just seem to have a knack of getting all the good out of the things they have, and usually they're the kind who get along in the world, the kind who get things done best with the least effort. In short, if they're farmers, they're good farmers.

Take John Redd, for instance. He lives on the Blue Road up in the northeastern part of the county. Incidentally, Mr. Redd living on the Blue Road is an odd coincidence, isn't it? Well, anyway, Claude Zimmerman was telling a little story about him and his farming practices that would have been hard to believe had it come from anyone but Claude Zimmerman. In brief, here 'tis:

Claude had occasion to be calling at the farm across the road and stopped to pass the time of day with Mr. Redd who was getting some shocked fodder out of the field. He noticed the rope with which the shocks were bound and remarked about it, and found that it had been holding shocks together for 24 years. Mr. Redd told him he had brought it with him when he came from Pennsylvania to Fayette County 21 years ago, and that it had been used three years before that. While the rope is treated to preserve it and protect it from wear, what really counts is that Mr. Redd sees to it that it is rolled up and saved when the fodder is brought in for feeding. Not much trouble and think of the satisfaction in knowing that corn binder cord is always ready and waiting for harvest. Never a worry about ups and downs in prices, or shortages, some of you farmers can figure out how much actual cash per shock he has saved with so little trouble over that quarter of a century.

That the McCoy triple murder has been the chief topic of conversation with the rank and file of residents most of the time since it took place, is shown by the following snippets of conversation I overheard in passing various groups on the street Tuesday:

"I'll bet they never find out who killed them and—", "I could tell you right now who the murderer is, but I don't—", "They say she was shot 12 times with two or three guns—", "I'll bet he got scared and did not take the money that—", "He used to hush corn for them, and he might have killed—", "Don't let them fool you, for they know who did it, I'll bet—",

"For heaven's sake, whoever would suspect him of such a crime—", "I was at their house just about three weeks ago, and never dreamed they would be killed—", "I wouldn't any more think of stepping outside the house after dark than—", "Sheriff Icenhower quizzed him until he was black in the face and he didn't—",

"I never heard of such a terrible crime in my life—", "I told them I didn't think one man killed them, for I'll bet there were three or four—",

The little excerpts of conversation show where the public mind has been.

ALLIED CONFAB REPORTED TO BE IN FINAL PHASE

First Meeting Ended and Second With Stalin Now In Progress, Belief

By The Associated Press
Unofficial reports that President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill were speeding to a conference with Premier Stalin in Iran after meeting with Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek in Cairo today stirred speculation that might new thrusts against the Axis were in the making.

That the meetings are under way was reported in a Reuters dispatch from London yesterday which said Roosevelt, Churchill and Chiang Kai-Shek already had concluded a long session in Cairo.

CONFERENCE NOW ON LONDON, Dec. 1.—(AP)—The German radio said today a meeting of President Roosevelt, Prime Minister Churchill, Premier Stalin and President Chiang Kai-Shek "apparently is now taking place" in Teheran, capital of Iran (Persia).

preliminary to a meeting with Stalin in Iran. Later, another dispatch from Stockholm reported the U. S. Ambassador to Turkey, Laurence A. Steinhardt, had left Ankara by air enroute to Teheran, capital of Iran.

The first three-way discussions among the British, Soviet and American leaders are expected to lead to closest coordination of strategy in the final drives to smash Germany as well as to the solution of postwar international problems.

Similar results, it is believed here, may be expected from any discussions in which Chiang Kai-Shek and his staff men participate. It appears, however, much more remains to be done in unifying direction of the war against Japan than in coordinating European offensives.

Barring unforeseen developments the most optimistic experts here do not consider the struggle in the Pacific more than half over.

Many military and political problems which have had to be solved by joint action of the Allies in Europe only now are coming into focus in the Pacific. In this connection it is significant that conferences between President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill in the past have resulted ultimately in considerable action.

One point on which all the Allies involved in the Pacific war seem agreed is that when Japan finally is defeated she must be reduced to a minor island power. This was made clear in President Roosevelt's September 17 speech to Congress in which he declared the United Nations will deprive Japan of authority over the Pacific mandated islands "and the same thing holds good in the case of the vast territories which Japan has stolen from China, starting long before this war began."

The President also said the "forces operating against Japan... are just as much interrelated and dependent on each other as are the forces pounding against Germany in Europe."

The weak link in this chain of interdependence is China because her huge resources in manpower are cut off from anything more

German Militarists Plot Hitler's Fall To Get Peace Terms

LONDON, Dec. 1.—(AP)—A junta of old-line professional German soldiers, supported by many Junker industrialists, agrarians and diplomats, is understood to be awaiting the opportune moment to overthrow Hitler's government in hopes of wrangling peace terms which would leave enough German militarism to form the core of a new world conquest. Hitler was said to be aware of the plot but was unable to oppose it because of its strength.

Warnings against Germany's peace balloons have been given by Secretary of State Cordell Hull.

Beef Ration Values Cut To Give U. S. More Meat

WASHINGTON, Dec. 1.—(AP)—The Office of Price Administration today announced a substantial cut in beef point ration values, but said the ration cost of lamb and mutton and practically all veal will remain unchanged in December.

Many pork cuts remain at the reduced value set by OPA in mid-November.

The new schedule is effective Sunday.

"The entire list of rationed beef items, ranging from porterhouse steak to hamburger, will be cut from two to three ration points," Price Administrator Chester Bowles said.

Both butter and margarine remain at their present point values, sixteen points and six points a pound, respectively.

Numerous beef cuts are listed in the new table at or near the relatively low point values of last spring. Porterhouse steak will cost nine points a pound under the new schedule, as against twelve at present; top round, ten points, as compared with thirteen; the ten-inch rib roast, six against nine; rump, five against eight.

Hamburger will cost six points, a reduction of one point.

COAL MINE ROW IS NOW MOVING TOWARD CRISIS

Southern Operators Balk As Contract Negotiations Reach Final Stages

WASHINGTON, Dec. 1.—(AP)—Official Washington is keeping its mouth shut and its ears bent for news which cascading rumors hint is of a meeting of President Roosevelt, Marshal Stalin, Prime Minister Churchill and perhaps Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek.

There is guarded speculation today, however, that if the Allied leaders do confer, or are now doing so, their primary concern must be agreement on measures for winning the war, with post-war plans etched into the background.

It also is believed any Allied conference would be highlighted by plans for coordination of strategy for the final drive on Germany and for the solution of international peace problems untouched by the recent Moscow conference.

Mine Row at Crisis

United Mine Workers chief John L. Lewis has the promise of Interior Secretary Ickes that the government won't turn southern mines back to their owners until they join in a general wage contract. On the strength of the promise, Lewis sat down today to talk turkey with the other operators who produce three-fourths of the nation's soft coal. Ickes is reported to have said that the southern operators would have to sign any contract finally agreed upon anyway, and that it was a lack of "American horse sense" for the recalcitrant operators to postpone it. They object to the underground travel time pay angle.

"How late?" demanded Lewis, whose United Mine Workers tied up coal production by striking four times this year. "There's a war on, you know."

Finishing Touches Sought

Today's negotiations, involving mines which produce nearly three-fourths of the nation's soft coal, were in the nature of finishing touches to a basic agreement already made. Nevertheless, there were two critical items of unfinished business, as follows:

1. Coal prices. The operators insisted, and Ickes made it plain, that any contract must be conditioned on "adequate" prices. He told them he never yet asked any producer to operate at a loss, and disclosed he sent a strong appeal yesterday to the Office of Price Administration (OPA) that operators who can make out a prima facie case of need should be given promptly another price increase in addition to increases granted last Saturday.

2. War Labor Board approval. Edward R. Burke, chief spokesman for southern producers, has insisted the War Labor Board would not approve continuation of the Ickes-Lewis formula when the mines leave government possession, but would require that travel time then be computed more exactly than the assumed 45 minutes a day.

Ickes is reported to have replied explosively to this contention at yesterday's meeting, saying such speculation is "obstructive and probably intended to be obstructive," Ickes implied the

RUMANIANS FLEE BEFORE RED DRIVES

ISTANBUL, Dec. 1.—(AP)—Details of a mass exodus of Rumanians fleeing the Crimea, Odessa and Bessarabia in the face of the Red Army's onslaught in southern Russia have been brought here by travelers from Rumania.

Here is a composite of their reports:

Fourteen trains leave Odessa daily for Rumania, carrying Rumanian civilians, archives and staple supplies.

Beginning October 20 Rumania began to evacuate troops from the Crimea, where she had eight divisions.

45 HURT IN CLEVELAND BY RUNAWAY STREETCAR

CLEVELAND, Dec. 1.—(AP)—A streetcar rolled backwards down Buckeye Hill in northeast Cleveland, crashed into an automobile and another trolley and injured 45 persons. Many of the passengers were hurt jumping from the car, none seriously.

Italian Politicians Turn On Allies After Being Rescued From Nazis

By RELMAN MORIN
NAPLES, Dec. 1.—(AP)—The whole issue of the relationship between free Italy and the Allied military government appeared today to be moving toward a showdown as a result of a second unauthorized political meeting called by four of the seven Italian political parties.

Public meetings of a political nature require previous authorization by AMG.

Last Sunday, what previously had been advertised as a public testimonial to the Italian philosopher Benedetto Croce, was called at the University of Naples. Instead, it turned out to be the occasion for further campaigning against King Vittorio Emanuele and in favor of the establishment

PINCER APPLIED TO JAPS WITH NEW LANDINGS

Russians Get Set-back at Railhead But Lunge On In Dnieper Bend Area

By RICHARD McMURRAY
By The Associated Press
The American Fifth Army advanced three miles on the mountainous side of Italy to straighten the Allied line in the center as the British Eighth Army continued its advance today beyond the Sangro River in the general area within 20 miles of the Adriatic port of Pescara.

Heavy losses were exacted from the Germans in the pierced and churned eastern end of their winter line as Allied arms fashioned a menacing arc around the distant approaches to Rome. The British were reported within two miles of Lanciano, German defense center 18 miles from Pescara where a major transverse highway crosses the peninsula to Rome.

British warships bombarded the Nazis from the Adriatic as Montgomery's men pressed them frontally by land and his planes lashed them from aloft. American Liberators ranged far to the north and bombed Fiume for the first time and tangled military traffic between Pescara and Ancona. They also hit roads and rails in Tuscany and the Italian west coast.

The American gains were made three miles west of Montaquila and placed the Fifth Army on more high, commanding ground.

Reds Get Setback

After recapturing Korosten, 85 miles northwest of Kiev, the Germans intensified their massed counterattack in the Ukraine and stiffened their stand in White Russia within seven miles of Zhitobin. In the Dnieper bend, a Russian lunge southwest of Kremenchug placed the Red army within 10 miles of the important rail city of Znamenska.

A large force of Allied bombers crossed the English Channel for the third successive daylight blow at the enemy after night stabs by RAF Mosquitos at western Germany and an attack by Flying Fortresses on the industrial city of Solingen, east of Duesseldorf. Two Forts and five Allied fighters were lost, seven German fighters were destroyed. By night, the busy RAF had mined enemy waters and damaged two ships in a convoy off the Dutch coast.

Pincers Put on Japs

Possibility of an American pincer maneuver to crush Japanese resistance on Japan's last major holding in the Solomons was seen today in a Tokyo announcement of new landings by United States forces on Bougainville Island.

The Tokyo radio said invading troops came ashore in six large landing barges at Cape Torokina under cover of a bombardment by cruisers and destroyers. It claimed Japanese defenses had "annihilated two companies" of the landing units.

Whether it was the same landings which Admiral William F. Halsey, Jr., commander of South Pacific forces, announced November 29.

SHORTAGE OF WHEAT FEARED BY MILLERS

CHICAGO, Dec. 1.—(AP)—A warning by the Millers National Federation that wheat was being used at a too rapid rate for safety was seen by grain men today as emphasizing the manner in which the country's food and war efforts were relying upon the staff of life.

In a report to the War Food Administration, the Millers Federation yesterday asked for an immediate reduction in wheat used for livestock and poultry feeding, as well as the substitution of molasses for wheat in producing industrial alcohol.

NO ELECTRICITY FOR CHRISTMAS DISPLAY, ORDER

Retail Stores, Homes, Will Limit Lighting To Inside Buildings

A "definite order" curtailing use of electricity for Christmas display and decorative lighting is now in the hands of F. E. Hill, manager of the Dayton Power and Light Company here. "No producer may construct a temporary extension to serve an electric lighting display for decorative or ornamental purposes related to the celebration of Christmas," the order reads. The order was issued by J. J. Whelan, recording secretary of the War Production Board. Regarding retail store Christmas decorations, Hill suggested that stores do not put up special lighting displays. He said manpower and coal will be conserved by limiting decorations to exclude outside lighting and limit inside displays to a minimum. Home lighting should be confined to trees inside the house, Hill continued, explaining that all outside lighting will be eliminated. Lighting for community celebrations, church festivals and city streets is "out," Hill emphasized.

BEEF RATION VALUES CUT TO GIVE U. S. MORE MEAT; NEW SCHEDULE MONDAY

The schedule effects fairly sharp increases in point values for all types of cheeses and major canned fish items. American cheese is raised two points to ten a pound, while cream cheese is boosted three points to eight points a pound. Such types as Swiss, Munster, and Brie will cost eight points, up two from the November table. With the exception of oysters, all rationed canned fish is raised four points to a total of sixteen a pound. Oysters are dropped one point to four a pound. Lard is reduced one point to two points a pound. Shortening and salad and cooking oils remain unchanged at five points a pound. The reductions in beef point values, together with those made earlier for pork, mean an increase of approximately 30 percent in the housewife's meat rations for December as compared with the November ration, OPA said. The agency estimated retail stores will have approximately 1,300,000,000 pounds of meat for sale to civilians during December, compared with about 1,000,000,000 pounds originally estimated for November. It was pointed out that while supplies of veal, lamb and mutton also are expected to continue fairly good during December, the point value of these meats was cut substantially for November and few decreases are possible this month. Several of the choicer pork cuts retain the two-point reduction made ten days ago. All hams and most bacon cuts are hiked one point, retaining half of the earlier two-point reduction. Such cuts as pork knuckles, which were carried down to a zero rating when the two-point cut was ordered, appear on the December table at one point a pound. All rationed sausages, with the exception of dry and semi-dry, are reduced one or two points from the November table. Rationing officials said that the present sixteen-point value for butter cannot be reduced until production is substantially larger than that estimated for the next few months.

"To cut point values would only re-create the situation of several months ago when many towns and cities not located in butter-producing areas were almost entirely without butter," OPA said.

The increase from one to three points in rationed cheeses reflects a sharp seasonal decline in November production, it was stated.

RODGERS IS TAKEN TO THE WORKHOUSE

Virgil West To Be Brought Back by Officers

E. D. (Happy) Rodgers, sentenced to six months in the Dayton Workhouse for contributing to the delinquency of a 14-year-old boy, was taken to that institution Wednesday in custody of Deputy Sheriff Otto Reso, who was to bring back Virgil West, former resident, who is wanted here on a non-support charge.

It is not Rodgers' first trip to the Dayton Workhouse, for he has been there a time or two before on charges of violating the liquor laws. The first trip he made there the police car broke down by reason of Happy's great weight at that time, as he weighed well over 300 pounds, or a great deal more than at the present time.

than a trickle of supplies from the United States and Great Britain. It seems certain, therefore, that strategic considerations of the three powers able jointly to defeat Japan must be concerned first with ways of clearing a supply route into China.

A Lisbon report, circulated by Reuters, British News Agency, said it was known definitely the Cairo meeting already had taken place and Roosevelt and Churchill had departed for Iran.

The Reuters dispatch was broadcast to European countries in several languages last night by the Office of War Information, which said it acted with the authority of the Office of Censorship.

Elmer Davis, OWI chief, declared later in Washington the German News Agency DNB, and "virtually everybody else" had circulated the Reuters report and OWI felt it "should give its customers something, too."

At the same time, however, he sharply criticized Reuters for putting out the story, declaring "if there were a conference Reuters broke a release date. If there were no conference, then the story would be an invention. Either way it is equally reprehensible."

The idea that a meeting between Roosevelt, Churchill and Stalin was probable has gained tacit acceptance in recent weeks. It generally was presumed the three statesmen would deem it advantageous to get together to place their personal stamp of approval upon decisions taken at the Moscow conference and possibly to plan further blows against the Axis.

Rumors Chiang might join such a conference slipped into the picture several days ago to add new global significance to reports of an impending meeting.

The Reuters dispatch said Chiang also would meet Stalin.

the suspect agreed to the test to be given in an established police laboratory in another city. Law yesterday officials announced they had been questioning a man "intimately known to the slain family of three." He was held in the Fayette County jail.

Asked if they intended to file charges against the man to keep him in custody, the prosecutor replied:

"We don't have to do that."

Officials have abandoned the theory of a "revenge" killing, which was advanced shortly after Elmer McCoy, 59, his wife, Forrest, 64, and their pretty, 22-year-old school-teacher daughter, Mildred—were found murdered at their farm home, "Oak View," Thanksgiving Day.

McCoy's body was found in the barn. His wife's bullet-riddled body lay on a screened-in side porch and the daughter's beside an automobile in front of the house. Like her father, she had been shot once in the back of the head.

Both the prosecutor and Sheriff W. H. Icenhower concluded the murder was a deliberate plot to wipe out the entire McCoy family.

They decided the murderer must have known the victims well, since two were killed by bullets fired at close range, apparently without their having struggled or attempted to defend themselves.

Robbery was ruled out as a motive, for the murdered girl's purse lay untouched on a table in the living room, and in a table beside the telephone wires which the killer had cut was a purse containing $140. The house otherwise was in perfect order.

A member of the prosecutor's staff said that under Ohio law, the bulk of the McCoy family property would go to Mrs. Laura Collett, sister of the dead man.

The man was brought here early today from Washington C. H. where he was questioned all yesterday, both by Hill and Sheriff W. H. Icenhower.

Arthur Eggert, superintendent of the Toledo police department crime laboratory, conducted the questioning with the aid of Fayette County officials, and applied the lie detector—an instrument by which blood pressure is recorded by needle as questions are asked. The needle fluctuates when an untruth is told, Eggert said.

The suspect, who was taken from Washington Court House about 2 A. M. this morning, generally was quiet throughout the trip but ate a hearty breakfast upon arrival here. He then was taken to headquarters and questioning began in the little room on the second floor.

Asked if they intended to file charges against the man to keep him in custody, the prosecutor replied:

"We don't have to do that."

Officials have abandoned the theory of a "revenge" killing, which was advanced shortly after Elmer McCoy, 59, his wife, Forrest, 64, and their pretty, 22-year-old school-teacher daughter, Mildred—were found murdered at their farm home, "Oak View," Thanksgiving Day.

McCoy's body was found in the barn. His wife's bullet-riddled body lay on a screened-in side porch and the daughter's beside an automobile in front of the house. Like her father, she had been shot once in the back of the head.

Both the prosecutor and Sheriff W. H. Icenhower concluded the murder was a deliberate plot to wipe out the entire McCoy family.

They decided the murderer must have known the victims well, since two were killed by bullets fired at close range, apparently without their having struggled or attempted to defend themselves.

Robbery was ruled out as a motive, for the murdered girl's purse lay untouched on a table in the living room, and in a table beside the telephone wires which the killer had cut was a purse containing $140. The house otherwise was in perfect order.

A member of the prosecutor's staff said that under Ohio law, the bulk of the McCoy family property would go to Mrs. Laura Collett, sister of the dead man.

ed the man obtained some farm accessories in his community that night and paused in the village to greet a barber he knew. Originally, Hill said, the suspect said he went directly home after that buying trip, but "an investigation indicates he did not."

The man was brought here early today from Washington C. H. where he was questioned all yesterday, both by Hill and Sheriff W. H. Icenhower.

Arthur Eggert, superintendent of the Toledo police department crime laboratory, conducted the questioning with the aid of Fayette County officials, and applied the lie detector—an instrument by which blood pressure is recorded by needle as questions are asked. The needle fluctuates when an untruth is told, Eggert said.

The suspect, who was taken from Washington Court House about 2 A. M. this morning, generally was quiet throughout the trip but ate a hearty breakfast upon arrival here. He then was taken to headquarters and questioning began in the little room on the second floor.

The suspect agreed to come here with the Fayette officers.

Prosecutor John B. Hill said the suspect agreed to the test to be given in an established police laboratory in another city.

"Yes, I want to get this thing cleared up," Hill said the man replied when asked if he would take the test.

Hill added: "We are not satisfied with his explanation of where he was last Wednesday night. There is a long period of time he cannot account for."

Law yesterday officials announced they had been questioning a man "intimately known to the slain family of three." He was held in the Fayette County jail.

Asked if they intended to file charges against the man to keep him in custody, the prosecutor replied:

THE WAR TODAY

By DEWITT MACKENZIE

If the Allies could force unconditional surrender on Germany forthwith, would that represent the best solution of the epochal world problem with which we are faced?

That's a question which couldn't have arisen profitably even six months ago, because Nazidom hadn't yet sustained the terrible hurts which it now bears. However, it arises rather naturally to-day—or should arise in thoughtful minds—because both Allies and Axis agree that the European conflict is in its final stages.

It's of special interest at this time because of the flood of peace speculation (most of it without the semblance of foundation), and the rumors in London that Messrs. Roosevelt, Churchill and Stalin may give the Hitlerites an ultimatum which will include a demand for capitulation.

Of course, an immediate termination of the war would in many ways be a glorious thing, and let it be admitted at once that we wouldn't look such a gift horse in the mouth. It would save a host of precious lives and a vast amount of suffering. That is, it would thus profit us all immediately. But would it actually save lives and suffering in the long run?

I think we must stop here to consider whether peace, before the German Reich has been ground exceedingly fine in the mill of war, wouldn't merely result in another world conflagration which would be even more destructive than this one. In short, would an immediate peace be saving the present generation at the expense of our children?

Many people feel that the Allies held their hand too soon in the last war. One of the chief reasons why we are saddled with world war number two is because Germany suffered no physical hurt in the last one. She lost many of the best of her youth, and she underwent great privations. But the people as a whole never even heard a pistol fired in anger.

In this war the Reich is getting a taste of the battle-field, thanks to the Allied air forces. Still, while there has been heavy loss of civilian life in the bombings, and the devastation has been great, Germany hasn't yet received the punishment necessary to her reform. This is one of the extreme cases where corporal punishment is the only thing that will work.

We mustn't forget that when we have performed the task of crushing Hitlerism and Prussian militarism, we have only started on the reform of Germany—the trouble-maker of Europe. We still have to change the mentality of the Prussian race.

The job is going to be doubly difficult because for ten years Hitler has had the youth of Germany in his hands, and has moulded it to suit his evil purposes. He has created a generation of militaristic fanatics. The Reich of today is vastly more militaristic minded than was the Reich of Kaiser Wilhelm's time.

Some say human nature can't be changed. I believe that it can and that Hitler has gone far towards demonstrating this in the manner in which he has manipulated the thought not only of his own great nation but of some others.

What Hitler has done in Germany can be done again, this time with honest hands. However, it seems to me that the first step towards permanent peace must be to shock the German people into realization of the meaning of these wars they have been thrusting upon other countries. And the shock must be harsh.

That brings us back to our original question—whether an immediate peace would be a good thing, if it could be had. Naturally our first thought is that we desire peace as soon as we can force unconditional surrender. We want our soldier boys back home.

Still, I think most of us will hope that, pending the inevitable surrender of the enemy, we shall find the time to blast Berlin and many other German cities to dust. Many of us will hope to see Allied armies criss-crossing the Reich, and our tanks grinding through fields which have bred generations of German soldiers but have never experienced war in modern times.

This feeling on our part doesn't represent any desire for revenge. It's an essential contribution to the remaking of this sorry world of ours.

GREATER NEED TO SHARE NOW, ROTARIANS TOLD

But Real Thankfulness Not Attained Yet, Rev. Parkin Says

"We will not reach real thankfulness until there is a greater effort made to lessen, even abolish, the selfishness which is a predominant factor in the world now," Rev. George B. Parkin, pastor of Grace Methodist Church, told Rotarians and their guests at their luncheon meeting Tuesday in the Country Club. His subject was "On Being Thankful".

He remarked that until there is a greater willingness and understanding among people to share blessings instead of making the profit motive the high point in their lives, true thankfulness would not come.

"Every day could be a Thanksgiving Day in view of the real blessings we have and of the things that we think so little of and which are a real aid and help to humanity," Rev. Parkin continued. He commented that many people don't realize there is something to be thankful for even now. Conditions today probably will bring about a real thoughtfulness on the part of most people, Rev. Parkin added.

"There is apparently a growing feeling that when the soldiers come back from war they aren't going to be satisfied with mere victory parades and bonuses—what they will want is to see that the world is actually made a better place to live and that there is security of peace," he concluded.

F. E. Hill passed eight Christmas greeting cards out to the group for each member to sign. Five of these cards will be sent to Rotarians from the club here now in service and will go to Col. Max Dice in Seattle, Washington; Seaman Selby Gerstner at the Great Lakes Naval Training Station, Great Lakes, Ill.; Lt. Condon Campbell, at Quana, Texas; Capt. James E. Thompson, Brownwood, Texas and Lt. John W. Burnett, Camp Wheeler, Ga.

Colin Campbell presented to President Halliday a small decorated pennant from the Rotary Club in Auckland, New Zealand, which had been given to Lieut. Col. Harold Hays, formerly of this city, when the latter was a guest speaker of the New Zealand club some time ago. Hays had sent the pennant to Campbell, who was district Rotary governor, in connection with a letter of thanks for a fine radio and receiving set which the Rotarians of this district, through Governor Campbell, had purchased and sent to the soldiers in the command of which Hays was an officer. Many of these soldiers were from counties in this Rotary district.

Speaker at the next meeting, December 7, will be Dr. C. E. Sherburn, of Columbus, president of the Ohio State Medical Association. His topic will be "Socialized Medicine."

The December 14 meeting will be a ladies' day session. Star speaker will be Miss Hazel Myer, who has been interned in a Jap prison camp.

ATTACK STEPPED UP IN ITALY — NEW DRIVE AGAINST JAPS LOOMS

ber 27, could not be determined in the absence of any word from Allied sources.

The possible new thrust in the Solomons came as Australians captured Bonga to deprive the Japanese of still another hold on the Huon peninsula of New Guinea, and the Chinese indicated a German improvement in the battle for the "rice bowl" city of Changteh in northern Hunan province.

Allied air activity continued along the widespread Pacific front, while Allied light warships, probably destroyers, ventured north of Vitiaz Strait for the first time to bombard the Sio harbor area on the northeastern New Guinea coast.

The Tokyo radio reported more than 10 Allied bombers and fighters raided Hongkong today.

United States forces now hold a beachhead of more than six miles along Empress Augusta Bay on the west-central coast of Bougainville. It was here that Marines made the first landings November 1. Cape Torokina is more than 10 miles north of Jaba, which is about mid-center of Empress Augusta Bay.

The Cape Torokina units thus may have been reinforced for a drive down the coast while the Empress Augusta forces continued on their northern advance. Japanese flyers, their bases smashed by American raids, have offered no interception in recent days.

The Japanese lost 1,096 dead in the eight-day battle for Piva Ridge on Bougainville which the Americans won. That brought their death toll for the entire Bougainville campaign to 2,014. American losses were announced as 281 killed and 145 missing.

Admiral Chester W. Nimitz, commander in chief of the Pacific fleet, returned to Pearl Harbor after a visit to Tarawa in the Gilberts which prompted his statement: "The Japs haven't lost the will to fight."

Now that Tarawa has been won, he said, its air base will aid greatly in the north and "we shall continue constant pressure on the Japs."

BOY FROM HERE IS REPORTED IN WAR HOSPITAL

Parents of Pvt. Robert Estle Get Letter from Buddy in South Pacific Area

Pvt. Robert Estle, of the U. S. Marines, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lester Estle, 503 East Elm Street, today is "in a critical condition" in an overseas hospital, presumably in the South Pacific combat area, according to word just received by his parents.

Estle was informed that his son is hospitalized in a letter from a friend of Pvt. Estle's in the Marines assuring him that his son was "getting along all right." No details as to why Pvt. Estle is in a hospital were given in the letter, but Mr. and Mrs. Estle believe their son may have been wounded in action.

Mr. and Mrs. Estle heard from Pvt. Estle only a few days before learning that he is in the hospital. Mrs. Estle said that Robert, 19, had been in five battles since going overseas last January and believes he now is or has been in the Solomon Islands area.

Pvt. Estle has been in the Marines since October, 1942.

A Troublesome Problem

There is no more thorny issue today, in international affairs, than the future of Poland. It is becoming increasingly useless and dangerous to try to duck that issue. Perhaps nothing can be done about it. Presumably Anglo-American diplomats have been doing their best, under cover. But at least we may as well recognize that the issue exists, and that it is pregnant with possibilities for infinite future trouble.

Until Soviet Ambassador Constantine Oumansky spoke in Mexico City the other day, it was possible for the let's-not-cross-the-bridge-until-we-reach-it advocates to assume that there might not be any real issue. It was possible, if not probable, that the alleged issue was just a hobgoblin in the reactionary minds of those who distrust political Communism.

That no longer is true. Mr. Oumansky, a conservative diplomat who does not voice national policy until he knows what Premier Stalin is thinking, says that Russia's frontier with Poland is that established when the Nazis split Poland with the Reds in 1939.

In effect Mr. Oumansky says that Poland can have back what Hitler seized, but that the half of Poland which Stalin took to "protect" it is going to remain Russian.

This is, of course, in complete defiance of the principles of the Atlantic Charter, to the essential tenets of common decency, to Russia's pledged word, of June, 1941, renouncing 'all claim to the territory she occupied in 1939.

What can we or the British do about it? That is the puzzler. We can, of course, make strong representations to Moscow, pointing out that such seizure of the territory of a brave people, who lost all but honor by resisting Hitler, can not possibly be accepted by decent people.

Unfortunately Moscow does not have to accept those strong representations. They could be implemented only by armed force, and Moscow knows very well how reluctant her allies against Germany would be even to hint at such a thing.

If we let the Polish question remain unsettled until the war ends, we shall have no option but to accept Stalin's decision or to fight.

On the other hand, there are economic pressures—matters of lend-lease and military assistance—which, if properly handled now, might avert the more unthinkable future evils.

The Patton Incident

It is conceivable that Lieut. Gen. Patton could strike a soldier under stress of emotion and still be a good officer. It is, perhaps, proper that he remain in command of the Seventh Army since he has apologized for the unfortunate incident in a hospital during the Sicilian campaign.

Certainly it is a problem for Gen. Eisenhower, and that officer has dealt with it. Again, perhaps it was for the best interests of the war effort that correspondents were asked by censors not to file dispatches on the occurrence with which they all were familiar. On the other hand,

Celeste Holm Scatter-brained but Good

By CLAYTON IRWIN

NEW YORK—Six evenings and two matinees a week, Celeste Holm plays the scatter-brained, irrepressible Ado Annie in the musical success, "Oklahoma."

Each evening, after the last curtain, she hurries across town and, in smart evening gown and expensive surroundings, sings sophisticated songs for the customers of the East Side's fashionable La Vie Parisienne restaurant.

Somewhere in between those two characterizations, you will find the real Celeste Holm, a pretty, blue-eyed blonde with an arresting figure, a background of European travel and exclusive schools, a gal with a great sense of comedy and a lot of acting ability.

Drew Pearson may have had justification for his disclosure, despite military silence, of the incident which has aroused discussion in homes and Army barracks alike.

The unforgivable part of the entire episode was the denial by Allied headquarters in Algiers, as quoted by the Associated Press, that Gen. Patton was reprimanded by Gen. Eisenhower. Censorship is accepted as a necessary evil, and newspaper correspondents accept the ruling of military authorities as to what should be printed during wartime. But there is a vast difference between withholding and falsifying the news. It is to the public interest to learn who issued the denial at Algiers, and who permitted newspapermen also in Algiers, to release the facts of what has been a common tonic of discussion among soldiers in the Italian theatre since August.

Italian Prisoners

The situation of Italian prisoners in the United States has remained unchanged since Italy's surrender and subsequent elevation to the status of co-belligerent. This situation, though anomalous and perhaps embarrassing, is understandable in the light of more urgent problems confronting the Army. Yet it seems that, knowing the temper and sympathy of most of these prisoners, they might be given a greater opportunity than they now have to do their part as co-belligerents by helping to relieve our manpower shortage.

There must be jobs that they could do without submitting Americans to any danger. Obviously this body of prisoners represents a variety of skills. The barrier of language should not keep these men from doing a satisfactory job in many kinds of manual work—for example, the less technical tasks connected with farming, lumbering and construction, as well as other work which is not strictly "essential" but which needs doing nevertheless.

rowdy, and very funny, "Eulene From Tunis." Yet she never sang professionally until she landed the Ado Annie role a few months ago.

The Holm success is no accident. Mama Holm, a New York painter, planned it that way. From the time Celeste was nine she studied at drama schools in Paris and New York and got into show business around 1935 through stock companies—the way, she says, "everybody has to start."

She played Ophelia in a road-company Hamlet, was George M. Cohan's leading lady in "The Return of the Vagabond," and had a long tour in Clare Luce's "The Women."

Can Be Too Authentic

That play, in which she was the catty, venomous Crystal, led her to wonder if it paid to be too authentic in a part. She had a hard time convincing people she met off-stage that she was just an ordinary working girl, and not at all like her stage character.

new routines, but he begins the handling of patients the like of which he has never seen before.

How many civilian surgeons had any experience prior to 1942 in the treatment of gunshot wounds? How many civilian physicians have had any experience in tropical diseases? I can assure you that the answer to both questions is very few.

The medical colleges and the medical departments of the army and navy are preparing the new crop of doctors for this experience. In my own school at least 90% of the medical students are in army or navy uniforms. An army officer and a navy officer are stationed in one of the school buildings and the "cadets" are taught drill and other forms and features of army and navy life.

Course in Tropical Diseases

For the first time in its history this school now has a course in tropical diseases. The most casual review of the faculty showed that no member had any knowledge of the subject, so a faculty member was sent to Tulane University, New Orleans, to take a course and he has now returned and is teaching junior and senior students the

CHAPTER TWENTY-NINE

ANDREA and Dennis were looking at the marionettes in the little theater at the end of the room, but Beth was looking at Andrea and Dennis, and her thoughts were not the stuff of which the performance at the Balaklava was made.

In the mirror back of her, she could see herself in her smart black dress, her impudent hat, but she saw nothing there that made her feel elated, proud as she had been that other night when Dennis was alone with her. Now she felt herself a pale shadow beside the radiant Andrea. For radiant was the only word she could think of. It wasn't the scarlet dress or the sequin-sparkling pill-box that Andrea wore far back on her cloudy dark hair that made her glow; it was some inner front on which she drew to give herself the glow that showed in her dancing eyes, in the warm color that ebbed and flowed under her olive skin. There was a vitality about her that was magnetic. A vitality that drained Beth of all she had.

She might, she thought, have just as well stayed home, for she felt she added nothing to the little threesome that had been so completely Andrea's since she came trailing down the stairs a moment after Beth had greeted Dennis in the hall at the rooming house.

"Dennis, my old dear!" Andrea had put just the right blend of pleasure, affection, reproach and delight into her voice. Andrea had lifted her cheek for Dennis to kiss (which he did, with a look at Beth which she failed to see), had given both her hands to him and said, "Beth's told you I'm practically a widow? Jim has gone off and left me, and I simply couldn't resist seeing you, so when Beth suggested that I surprise you, well, here I am. Are you glad?"

"Delighted," Dennis had said, and Beth wondered now, as she watched the antics of the marionettes out of one eye, if she had imagined he wasn't as delighted as he might have been.

"Beth did insist, you know," Andrea had gone on. "I just sit around here night after night doing absolutely nothing, but tonight we're all going to have fun. Will you take me to that wonderful restaurant Beth said you took her to?"

So they'd gone to the Salle du Bois, but it wasn't the same tonight. Another time, Beth had felt gay and happy and rarely interesting. Tonight she was just the third person.

The capers on the stage were amusing, and Dennis laughed spontaneously, crinkling up the corners of his eyes. Beth thought, "He's

Patty Ann Robison Feted at Dinner On 7th Birthday

Mrs. Everett Robison entertained with a most delightful birthday gathering at her home, Tuesday evening, the occasion being the seventh birthday of her daughter, Patty Ann.

The guests assembled at five thirty o'clock, and vivacious Patty Ann greeted her guests attired in a yellow wool skirt and white blouse. A large yellow ribbon adorned her blonde tresses.

The youngster received many pretty wrapped gifts for which she made response in her most charming manner.

The guests were invited to the dining room for the serving of a most delicious six o'clock dinner, and the table was lighted by tapers carrying out a patriotic color scheme. Each guest was served an individual birthday cake, following the singing "Happy Birthday" to the youthful guest of honor. Clever favors were placed about the table.

After the hilarious hour at the table, the guests spent the remainder of the evening with the guest of honor, who entertained them with several interesting games.

Those present included Susan Wessler, Shirley Frey, Francine Sanders, Mary Jane and Wanda Lou Pollard, Patty and Nancy Hurtt, Sue Ann Christopher, Patty Litz, Becky Sue Lowe, Jerri Baylan, Linda and Wilma Brown, Ann Ducey, Patty and Shirley Rumer, Bee Van Zant, Judith Preston, Tarsha Badgley, Nancy James, Ann Hire and Patty Ann's brother, Billy Robison.

Mrs. Robison was assisted during the evening by Mrs. Charles Hurtt and Mrs. Carl Preston.

Browning Club Has Session Tuesday Evening

The Browning Club met in regular session at the Washington Hotel Tuesday evening at seven thirty. The meeting was opened by the Vice-President, Mrs. Olive Springer. The minutes of the last meeting and roll call was given by the secretary, Mrs. Mary Burgett.

The program was in charge of the Literature department with the vice-chairman, Miss May Duffee presiding. Miss Duffee read the quotation for the department then presented Mrs. Urcel Hays, who gave the first paper "Stephen Vincent Benet." Mrs. Hays stated that Stephen Vincent Benet was born at South Bethlehem, Pa., and was the son of Col. James Walker Benet of the United States Army, now retired. His schooling was in Augusta, Ga., and before he had entered the class of 1919 in Yale University, he had published his first small volume of poems "Five Men and Pompey." His second book was "Young Adventure" and the third, just after his graduation, "Heavens and Earth." The next year came his first novel "The Beginning of Wisdom." He contributed many short stories and poems to leading magazines. His promising career came to an end very suddenly in March, 1943. Mrs. Hays read one of his lengthy poems "Listen to the People" which gave a slant to the tone of many of his writings.

The next paper "The Christian Churches in the War" was most interestingly given by Mrs. Mary Parkin. She stated, "The Christian church is definitely in the war to help build up the morale of the fighting men." Mrs. Parkin said that much of the material for her paper had been sent to her by William R. Arnold, chaplain over all of the U. S. Army chaplains and a personal friend of Rev. Parkin, both having attend the school for chaplains during the first World War. Rev. Arnold writes regularly to all of his chaplains and tells them their reward will be God's blessing and the good they can do for their fellowmen. Preaching is only a small part of their duty, they assist in many ways, their protection a Bible and a hymnal and faith in God. Many more chaplains are needed. This city has provided a very worthy one, Rev. Fred Mark. Local churches throughout the country do not seem to quite meet the needs of service men. They need to capture the soldier's interest but not so much by entertainment as by church service. They can go other places for various forms of entertainment. Readjustment after the war will be a problem of the churches. Mrs. Parkin read a Christmas message by Rev. Arnold and a poem by Sergeant Frank Luttrell of Oregon. She also displayed a lovely and interesting Christmas manuscript which was sent to her last year by her brother who is in service. Mrs. Essie Kelly was present to close the interesting meeting.

Mrs. Frances Rowe Entertains Maple Grove WSCS

The election of officers was conducted during the November meeting of the Maple Grove WSCS, when they met at the home of Mrs. Frances Rowe.

Those elected were: Mrs. John Rowland, president; Miss Minta Rowland, vice-president; Mrs. Homer Southers, secretary; Mrs. Floyd Rea, treasurer; Mrs. Wesley Jones, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Jesse White, chorister and Mrs. Roy Garrison, pianist.

The meeting was presided over by Mrs. Jesse White and opened with a devotional service conducted by Mrs. Floyd Rea. Songs, prayer and an original poem, "Me and My Home," was given by Mrs. Rea.

The program consisted of a reading capably given by Mrs. F. M. Moon.

During the social hour which followed adjournment of the meeting, a tempting salad course was served by the hostess and a delightful hour was enjoyed.

The next meeting is to be held at the Maple Grove Church.

TEACHERS HEAR SPEAKER TELL OF NEW MAP IDEAS

Miss Gladys Nelson Named OEA Delegate by City Teachers Tuesday

"There are three schools of thought concerning maps," David Sites, representative of Rand McNally Publishing Company, told city school teachers here Tuesday afternoon.

He named the schools as: "1. The stand-patters; 2. The polar concept and 3. The conservatives." Explaining further, Sites said "stand-patters" cling to the maps as they are constructed now, that "conservatives" keep what we have now but consider new concepts as well.

Sites explained too that the polar concept is the newest type of map made now. On a polar map, speaking from the standpoint of traveling from the United States, he hold how much closer Moscow, Singapore, London, Berlin and other cities are to the United States if a plane flies over the North Pole instead of around the earth. "Dakar in Africa is closer to Maine than it is to Florida flying on a global map," Sites said.

Miss Gladys Nelson, president of the teachers association here, was named delegate to the Ohio Educational Association convention December 28 and 29 at the Desler Wallick Hotel in Columbus. She was elected at the meeting. George Miraben, vice president of the association, was elected alternate to the convention.

His subject was "Changing World Concepts and Global Geography."

Blue Lions Lack Experience and Height But Have Shown Spirit in Rehearsals

It will be a small but fairly fast bunch of Blue Lion basketball players who take the floor for WHS in the opening game of the season against Greenfield's Tigers here December 10, George Miraben, the head coach, disclosed in his first public announcement since the boys started preliminary rehearsals about three weeks ago. "One thing is outstanding," Miraben said, "and that is the spirit." Because of lack of experience, which obviously is giving the coach considerable concern, team spirit is being counted on to make up the difference. "It is splendid," he declared with enthusiasm and added that "it is much better than last year."

While Miraben was not gloomy over the outlook, he was far from optimistic. Bill Rudduck is the only boy on the squad who played regularly last year. Carroll Steele saw a little action but, Miraben declared, "from there on it's new—brand new, some of it."

33 Out For Squad

There is no lack of interest and no shortage of players this year. Sophomores make up nearly half of the 33 who have been reporting regularly for rehearsals. Six of them are seniors, four are juniors and nine are freshmen.

"We have had a nice turnout," Miraben said, "since league rules permit only freshmen and sophomores to play in reserve games." These boys may play with the varsity, however, providing they have not played in the reserve game on the same evening. Miraben has been working with the entire squad for the past three weeks, but now that Jerry Kissell, head football coach is free to lend a hand, Miraben has taken the upper classmen and Kissell the freshmen and sophomores. The upper class group will make up the varsity and the other group the reserves. Miraben emphasized, however, that any freshman or sophomore who shows ability will get his chance with the varsity.

He gave this list of candidates for the varsity:

Seniors—Bill Rudduck, Dick Kelly, Harold Moyer, George DeWeese, Bud Carlson and Steve Kellough.

Juniors—Bill Parker, Delbert Brandenburg, Charles Burris and Roger Whitmore.

On the reserve squad with varsity ambitions are:

Sophomores—Carroll Steele, Wayne Rudduck, Jim Twining, Danny O'Brien, Tect Graves, Ronnie Briggs, Max Garringer, Chester Brown, Jim Jenkins, David Thompson, Bob Foster, Everett Rayburn, Byron Henton and Forrest Dray.

Freshmen—Jim Liso, Glen Holden, Bob Williams, Marilyn Reno, Gerald Scott, Roger Grimm, Bill Hughes, Jack Pyle and Carl Looker.

The past weeks have been devoted to light workouts with some basket shooting, but not much more. From now on the work will get more strenuous.

Lack of tall boys is one of the big worries for the coaches. Whitmore is "head and shoulders taller than anyone around and he's 6 feet, 2 inches," the coach said. The Rudduck brothers, Carlson and Steele have been showing the speed, he said.

Women's City Bowling Race Still Deadlocked for Lead

Lloyd's Markettes and Light's Dairymaids pulled out further in front as they raced neck and neck in the Women's City League bowling race by taking all three games of their Tuesday night matches on the Main Street alleys.

At the same time, Hawkinson's Treasures climbed into a tie with Craig's Airsteppers for third and fourth positions.

The Markettes, on the short end of the 184 to 91 handicap, nosed out the Morris Store girls by a scant two pins in the first game but, once by that tough one, they turned on the heat to take the next two by substantial margins.

The Dairymaids, spotting the Business and Professional Women 33 pins in the handicap, took the opening game by 21 pins after a nip and tuck battle and then went on to win the last two games without much trouble by rolling consistently while their opponents weakened.

War Labor Board would accept the new contract. He declared "you know what the government will approve because you know what it has approved."

White House Suite Open

Mrs. Harry Hopkins is pulling out tentstakes, getting ready to move out of the White House into a Georgetown home. Judging from the looks of things at the Hopkins' new home, however, it's going to be a little while yet before they can leave 1600 Pennsylvania Avenue, which is where the president gets his mail. There's a lot of refurbishing to be done before the presidential adviser can mollify those critics who say he has been boarding at the White House too long.

Reign of Landis In Minors Now Hangs by Thread

By SID FEDER

NEW YORK, Dec. 1.—(AP)—The fanciest fireworks in 40 years of minor league baseball are due to blow up in one loud "bang," and when the shooting is over Commissioners Kenesaw M. Landis and William G. Bramham will either be waving a bigger stick than ever—or won't have any stick at all.

Opening the third day of the "revolution" of the winter baseball meetings, the minors went from separate sessions into the general get-together of the National Association of Professional Baseball Leagues, headed for the bitterest brawl over control and power ever faced by Landis in 22 years as high commissioner or by Bramham in 12 years as minor league "czar."

With the nine operating minor leagues reported split four-and-four, and one "on the fence," all signs pointed to a photo-finish over (1) whether Landis will lose entire control of the minors through the "death" of the iron-clad major-minor league agreement, (2) whether Bramham will be voted out of office as National Association president, to be succeeded by Frank J. Shaughnessy, the International League head, and (2) whether 16 leagues which had their voting privileges taken away will win their battle to get the ballots back to vote in the scramble.

These 16 were "dis-franchised" because they didn't operate in 1943, although continuing to pay National Association dues. If they are allowed to ballot, the chances are the "rebellion" stirred up by a powerful group among the nine loops which did function in '43 will be put out. The group of rebels was said to include the International League, American Association and the Piedmont League.

Most of the 16 loops figure to be regular party liners who will vote for Bramham's reelection to his $25,000-a-year job and for renewal of the major-minor pact, by which Landis wields his power over the minors.

The major leagues came up with some developments, chief of which were the retirement of King Carl Hubbell, southpaw pitching ace for 16 years, to become head of the New York Giants' growing farm system, and the report that Bucky Harris, recently appointed manager of Buffalo in the International League, might be offered the job as general manager of the Phillies' organization if Herb Pennock turns the spot down.

GRAIN MARKET NEWS SUMMARY

CHICAGO, Dec. 1.—(AP)—Wheat prices advanced sharply at one time today on moderate mill buying, coupled with a dearth of offerings, but once the milling demand was satisfied prices started to retreat. Gains ranging to more than a cent were generally reduced to fractions.

The strength in wheat was reflected in higher prices for other grains, although trading was not on a heavy scale. Most of the buying came through commission houses with local traders showing a disposition to remain on the sidelines in view of the unsettled subsidy battle and the possibility of important international news developments.

At the close wheat was 1/4-1/2 higher, December 1.64 1/2-1/2, oats were up 1/4-1/2, December 1.75 1/2-1/2, and barley was 1/4-1/2, December 1.17 1/2-1/2.

DAY'S ACTIVITIES IN WALL STREET

NEW YORK, Dec. 1.—(AP)—The stock market enjoyed a moderate recovery today after its long string of late November declines.

Leading issues in virtually all key groups moved up fractions to around a point and some relatively inactive specialties established gains running to as much as 5 points.

Brokers suggested the principal buying motive was widespread belief that the market's loss of ground in November, nearly four points off average, indicated a base for some rebound.

—Spyina— On Sports

By Hugh Fullerton, Jr.

NEW YORK, Dec. 1.—(AP)—Commissioner K. M. Landis doesn't even stay at the hotel where this week's baseball meetings are being held, but no one's name is heard much oftener than his—unless you listen to the gags about Bill Cox. . . The principal ideas are either that the judge will intervene somehow to prevent an open battle among the minor circuits from becoming more open than it is, or that one reason for the whole fuss is that some of the boys are sniping at Landis.

The Farmerettes tumbled the Airsteppers into a tie with the Treasures by taking the last two games after losing the opener by 13 pins. The Farmerettes turned in a spectacular 967 in the last game with the advantage of their 136-pin handicap and piled up a 2488 to 2162 advantage in the total score.

The cellar dwelling Record-Herald girls won their fourth game of the season when they topped the Treasures in the first game with an 11-pin edge and missed the last one by only 13 pins. But, the Treasures left no doubts about which was the better in the second game which they won by 851 to 692.

Miscellaneous

As for the other news in Washington, it amounted to these developments:

Senator Walsh (D-Mass.) wants a personal excess profits tax added to the House-approved $2,140,000,000 new revenues bill, to trim down war-fattened incomes.

The split is widening between labor and agriculture over subsidies. Organized labor has joined administration leaders in the fight to retain the federal payments which are designed to hold retail prices down. Farm leaders, however, are sticking to their guns, demanding abolition of the payments.

of either a reagency or a republic. No authorization for the meeting was requested.

The incident, underlines the change in the attitude of the Italians toward the Allied military and civil authorities.

After the Italian declaration of war on Germany, the country's status changed from that of an occupied country to one of co-belligerence.

However, British and American military commanders together with AMG still constitute the Central Administrative Authority for every action or event that bears on the active conduct of the war.

The reason Kiki Cuyler took a Southern Association managerial post is that Jimmy Wilson was so sure of being fired that he couldn't assure Kiki that he could continue as a club coach.

Fish Story

Soldiers at Camp Edwards, Mass., vouch for this yarn—so naturally we wouldn't argue with them. . . Seems that two of the boys were talking along the beach near Cape Cod camp when they noticed a large school of rock bass in pursuit of a swarm of minnows. . . Running into the breakers, the soldiers waited until the fish came close and then put their football training to good use by kicking the fish onto the beach. . . They claim they booted out 80 pounds of bass, ranging in size from three to seven pounds.

hope for a German military victory. The group is said to have asked these concessions in return for the overthrow of Hitler:

Guarantees that Germany would be occupied by forces from the west or United Nations under a joint American-British command—a precaution against Russian occupation.

Guarantees that Germany would be permitted to retain a reduced army to insure against civil war, demobilizing gradually after a Republican government was elected and established.

Fayette County Farm Bureau Roll Call Monday

TOPS IN STATE THIS YEAR IN ANNUAL DRIVE

Every Farm Family Invited To Join Organization by Membership Committee

The annual Fayette County Farm Bureau Membership Roll Call Day, for the coming year, has been set by the board of directors and the membership committee, consisting of Percie Kennell, Glen L. Smith and Carlton Belt, for Monday. This will be the day when an invitation will be given every farm family to join the organization for 1944.

In making ready for this Roll Call Day, a meeting of all township workers and committees will be held Wednesday evening, at the Farm Bureau office with the membership committee and C. C. Bair, director of field organization of the Ohio Farm Bureau Federation for 17 counties in the central part of the state.

Member workers who will attend this meeting and call on their neighbors on Monday are as follows: Union Township, Percie Kennell, Beryl Cavinec, J. C. Kibler, W. R. Moats, Lowell Kaufman, Charles Pierce, W. T. Baughn, Joe McFadden, Ray Wilson, Hazel Moyer, Dave White-side, Loy Morris, Clifford Foster, Walter McCoy.

Concord and Jasper Township workers are: R. C. Belt, Earl Anderson, Maurice Sollars, W. E. Sollars, Harold Mark, Robert Case, Orville Waddell, George Cline, Robert Cannon, Ray Pope, William Wilt and D. V. Glass.

Perry and Wayne Township workers are: Grove Davis, Ervin Ritter, Edward McClure, Lester Ellis, W. A. Bonner, J. McElroy Duncan, Frank Smith, Hugh Smith, Floyd Rea, John Rowland, Glenn L. Smith, Verne Wilson, Wain Lough and Hugh Sollars.

Paint Township workers are: Ellsworth Vannorsdel, H. W. Looker, Frank L. Greff, John C. Cannon, Charles Haigler, Charles Seibert, Harold Zimmerman, Lloyd Iden, Eben L. Thomas, M. G. Morris, Elmer Simerl, J. W. Reed, Edgar McFadden, H. C. Reed, Cloyd Craig, Frank Westside, D. H. Wisler, Leland Stevens, Lewis M. Parrett, Delbert Spears and J. O. Tressler.

Those workers in Madison and Marion Townships are: A. E. Dawson, Simon Stuckey, Howard Hopkins, Homer L. Wilson, Omar Rapp, Alvin Witteck, Paul Shepherd, Robert Rowland, Roscoe Duff, Forest Briggs and A. H. Graves.

Fayette County leads the state in the current Roll Call drive of the Ohio Farm Bureau to secure advance membership for 1944, according to Harry L. Culbreth, organization manager, of the farm group. Many of the 1943 members have already rejoined for 1944 and have thus qualified for the county Honor Roll.

Fayette County, with 328, and 1944 members, at the end of last 144 members, at the end of last week, lead the field, said Culbreth, but reports are coming in fast and other counties may forge into the lead at any time.

Percie Kennell, chairman of the Fayette County Farm Bureau membership committee, said 350 members of the group here have so far enrolled for 1944. He reported keener interest than ever before in the Farm Bureau program and greater realization among farmers of the need for united action.

An extensive organization is being set up to secure new members for the county group, Kennell said. He expects last year's county total of 510 and state total of 30,126 will both be far exceeded. The urgent war time problems of agriculture together with increased farm income will operate to bring in new members, he explained.

The slogan of the membership drive this year is "Neighbor, Join With Us." Present members will call upon their farm friends to unite with the Farm Bureau for their mutual welfare. They will point out that only through united action can farmers hope to meet their war time production goals and at the same time protect their own interests.

THREE SOLOISTS GIVE RECITAL HERE TUESDAY

Organist, Violinist, Baritone Appear at WHS Auditorium

Before nearly 200 people, three Capital University musicians—an organist, a violinist and a baritone soloist—presented a varied recital in the high school auditorium here Tuesday night.

Frederick C. Mayer, dean of Capital University Conservatory of Music in Columbus, assisted by George S. Schultz, baritone, and Elizabeth M. Mayer, violinist, were the artists performing. Mayer's three groups of organ numbers were "Concert Prelude" by A. Walter Kramer; "Harmonies" by Sigfrid Karg-Elert; "Toccata: O God Our Help in Ages Past" by Garth Edmundson; "Nocturne" by Giuseppe Ferrata; "Chorale Prelude" by J. S. Bach; "Air with Variations" by Franz Josef Haydn; "March Champetre" by A. J. Boeck; and "Now Thank We All Our God," by Karg-Elert.

Miss Mayer selected as her four violin solos, "Arioso," by Bach; "Romance," by Henri Wieniawski; "Ave Maria," by Schubert and "Spanish Dance," by Fabian Rehfeld.

Schultz's solos were "Thanks Be to Thee," by Handel; "Der Tod, Das Ist Die Kuehle Nacht," by Theodore Paxon; "The Trumpeter," by Airle Dix; "Ay Gitanos," by Vera Eakin; "Sombre Woods," by Jean Baptiste Lully, and "David and Goliath," by Albert Malotte.

Karl J. Kay, who made arrangements for the concert, described the audience as "small but appreciative."

CAR DRIVER INJURED IN CRASH ON CCC

Ambrose Morris Receives Broken Nose and Ribs

Ambrose Morris, who lives on the Hugh Perrill farm near Milledgeville, today is at home with a broken nose, several broken ribs and lacerations and bruises on his face and head after an auto crash near the Bea-Mar Farm on the CCC highway about 1:40 A. M. Wednesday.

Morris' car—a 1933 Chevrolet coach—was reported unofficially to have been going toward Sabina when it met a transport truck driven by Glenn Beakman of Good Hope. Beakman is said to have stated that he saw Morris' car coming and tried to swerve and avoid it, but that the car "kept right on coming."

Beakman's truck was damaged but can be repaired, it was reported. Morris' car was described as "ruined." Beakman was not injured. Whether or not the two men riding with Morris were injured is not known.

Cox and Parrett's ambulance brought Morris to Dr. Jack Persinger's office for first aid treatment about 2 A. M. Wednesday.

No formal report of the accident was made to the city police or to the sheriff's office.

BLUE LIONS ARE FETED BY LIONS CLUB AT DINNER

Miami Grid Coach Speaks At Country Club Dinner Meeting

Highlight of the annual Lions' Club banquet for Blue Lion gridders of the high school here was an address delivered by Stuart Holcomb, Miami University grid coach. Holcomb reviewed briefly some of the difficulties encountered by coaches this season because of the lack of manpower and the limited time allotted Navy trainees for grid practice. He had high praise for Paul Shoultz and other civilian members of the powerful Miami eleven.

The difficulties encountered this season, however, did not detract from the enjoyment derived from the game, he said. Holcomb stated that the boys still had their usual great desire to play football and to play it as hard as they knew how.

The Miami mentor emphasized football is a game and should be played like any game, hard and earnestly. Only by playing the game that way, stated Holcomb, will any player derive full benefit from the many lessons the game can teach.

"We all know," remarked Holcomb, "that this season other considerations have given us far more important things to think about than football."

Most coaches expected that the past season would present difficulties in the way of manpower, stated Holcomb, and thus every coach was just a little bit more philosophical about losing under extraordinary conditions which affected all teams, high school, college and large university squads.

Approximately 80 high school gridders, Lions and guests attended the annual affair held in the Country Club dining room.

In addition to the squad other honor guests included coaches, Jerry Kissell, George Miraben, and Clyde Cramer, band leader. Paul Fitzwater, A. B. Murray, superintendent of schools, Walter Rettig, high school principal, Paul Shoultz, former Blue Lion star and an outstanding performer for Miami University this fall and Miami coach, Stuart Holcomb.

A brief review of the past season was given by Coach Kissell, who also praised the Lions Club for its excellent support during what he termed some "rather dark days" in the season just concluded.

Coach Kissell introduced each Blue Lion to the Lions Club and on behalf of the squad Kissell expressed thanks for the Lions Club annual invitation to join them in a grid banquet.

Rettig also expressed appreciation to the Lions for their support of high school athletics and welcomed back Paul Shoultz, who starred during the past season on the Miami University, and who formerly was an ace performer on Blue Lion eleven.

Holcomb was introduced by the Toastmaster for the evening, Robert Terhune, who described the Miami coach as one of the outstanding coaches in this section of the nation.

The program was concluded by the showing of technicolor films of the recent Miami-Ohio Wesleyan game with comments by Holcomb.

NEW CEILINGS ON PROCESSED FOODS BY OPA

Revised Lists Available at Ration Board Office for Shoppers Here

Official OPA legal ceiling price lists on staple food items which go to make up the family market basket, revised to Wednesday, are now available at Fayette County's War Price and Rationing Board, the chairman said as he pointed out principal changes in the revised list are those affecting sale of butter, canned fruit, fruit juices and canned vegetables which are in accordance with the regulations governing the 1943 pack. Dollars-and-cents prices on fresh fruits and vegetables and meats are not included on this list but are listed separately, the ration board explained. "Consumers are urged to pay no more than legal ceiling prices and all merchants are required to post these lists in their stores," the chairman warned. Separate lists are printed for smaller independent stores which are in groups one and two and the large independent and chain stores in groups three and four. Each store is required to post a group sign, the chairman pointed out, announcing that ample supplies of the list are now available at the
